KEEPING YOUR FAMILY STRONG

Guest Speaker:

Alan Ludington, M.S., M.DIV.

Ludington Institute of Family Enrichment

When our loved one is dealing with a mental illness, the entire family is affected and often goes into crisis. Supporting our ill family member in their recovery can be challenging and stressful. It is very common for family members to neglect their own needs or the needs of others, and individuals are at risk for family breakups and developing depression, anxiety and chronic physical illnesses.

It is crucial that the family remain balanced and healthy. What can you do to stay strong and continue helping your mentally ill loved one?

Alan Ludington opened the Conejo Counseling Center in 1981, and the Ludington Institute for Family Enrichment (L.I.F.E.) of Westlake Village in 1996. He has considerable experience in family therapy and with clients resistant to treatment. He is a former member of the Ventura County Alcohol & Drug Advisory Board.

LARGE TURNOUT AT NAMI HOLIDAY PARTY!!

With a new location at the Elks Lodge in Oxnard, this year's NAMI Holiday Party was the most well-attended to date. There were over 430 people and smiling faces, with about 330 clients and another 100 staff and family members - a record crowd at a NAMI gathering!

The grand ballroom at the Elks Lodge, transformed for the Party!

The room was beautifully decorated for the season, and the 50 round tables in the large ballroom were covered with red, green, and white tablecloths, with candy and nuts for everyone. This year's party featured a complete turkey dinner with all the trimmings, a nice change from the usual fare at previous holiday parties. When the meal was served, the buffet line that formed went all around the room. It was great to see that people waited in the long line patiently; in fact they took the opportunity to meet up and chat with old friends at tables while they circled the room!

Sharon Robinson took the stage as Mrs. Santa and drew numbers for the door prizes. There were so many prizes that almost all the clients were called up and asked to pick a special prize. And of course every client received a gift as they left the party, so everyone went home with a smile on their face.

Sharon was assisted by her volunteers, including Jane, Cece, and Carol, with Rosemary, Charlene and Chris at the check-in desk and greeters Chuck and Louise at the door.

arrived with vans full of party-goers from various locations throughout the County. A big thank you to the VCBH case managers who reached out to the clients and provided transportation, to the clinic administrators and staff, and the residential facilities staff, who came and joined in the dancing and festivities. And a special recognition to Meloney Roy and the Department for covering the cost of the holiday feast.

Guests included a surprise visit from Santa Claus! Other dignitaries spotted included Michael Powers, Cyndi Christenson, and Matthew Bennett. Thanks to all of you whose door prize donations and desserts helped make the holiday party a success, and a special thanks to NAMI's own Spirit of the Season - Sharon Robinson - who makes it happen!

NEW HOUSING PROJECT PLANNED

The Ventura County Behavioral Health Department (VCBH) has announced a new permanent supportive housing project for clients affected by serious mental illness.

The proposed Paseo de Luz Apartments will be constructed at 457 West Gonzales Road, Oxnard on 0.9 acres of land. This property has been acquired by Cabrillo Economic Development Corporation (CEDC), a local nonprofit housing developer and will be developed in collaboration with VCBH.

This project will be an important element of the MHSA program and will provide 24 units of permanent supportive rental housing with integrated services. Consistent with the Community Services and Supports component of MHSA, the target population for this project will be extremely low-income, homeless and at risk of homeless adults with a psychiatric disability, including transition-age youth and older adults. Occupancy will be specifically limited to those whose income does not exceed 20% and 30% of the area median income. All potential residents must be referred to the project through VCBH.

The overarching principles of the MHSA housing service plan are client/tenant choice and that services are voluntary. The supportive services program will assist residents to succeed in their wellness, reduce hospitalizations, reduce incarcerations, increase employment, and successfully re-integrate into the community.

Project information is posted for 30-day review during a comment period beginning Thursday, December 18, 2008. Comments are due on or before January 17, 2009. See the MHSA web site at www.vchca.org/bh ❖

JUDGE KELLEGREW ADDRESSES NAMI MEETING

NAMI families and friends came together at the November General Meeting to hear the Honorable Kent Kellegrew speak on how the issues of mental health are incorporated into the legal system. Judge Kellegrew spoke primarily about conservatorships, the difference between the Lanterman-Petris-Short (LPS) and Probate conservatorships, involuntary holds allowed through the LPS Act, and how he as a member of the judicial system attempts to balance the needs of the mentally ill with his obligation as an officer of the court.

Judge Kellegrew explained to the group that conservatorships are granted primarily through two different bodies of legislation. The probate code allows for a conservatorship to be established when an individual is unable to meet his or her personal needs or manage his or her financial resources. The reason for this inability may be due to a variety of reasons (e.g., physically incapacitated) and may or may not include mental illness and/or intellectual disability. Judge Kellegrew informed the group that the LPS Act, which is embedded within the Welfare and Institutions Code, provides for a conservatorship to be established if a person is unable to meet his or her personal needs because of mental illness. In response to a question from the audience, the Judge confirmed that an involuntary hold (e.g., 5150) was not a prerequisite to establishing an LPS conservatorship.

Using a flowchart, Judge Kellegrew explained the circumstances under which an individual could be held involuntarily under the LPS Act. Under what is commonly referred to as “5150”, individuals can be held for up to 72 hours for evaluation. This hold can be instigated by court order, or by various personnel from law enforcement or the medical/psychiatric community. The length of time a person can be held involuntarily may be extended if he or she is found to continue to be gravely disabled and/or a threat to him or herself or to others. The judge emphasized that the judiciary is extremely hesitant to take away the rights of citizens, that there is an underlying assumption that people can take care of themselves, and that everyone has the right to be “different”.

As an officer of the court, the Judge described how he attempts to balance the needs of individuals who appear to have mental illness with his obligations in ensuring his court runs efficiently and equitably. Judge Kellegrew described how he uses groups of professionals, such as Quick Start, to help him ensure that people whose circumstances may be more complex receive the time and expertise they require before issues of guilt, innocence, or competence are determined. The judge told the group that the challenges some experience with the courts or law enforcement are likely more to do with the role of these governmental entities rather than the particular individuals who are the faces of these entities in the community. For example, the judge emphasized that the job of the DA is to convict individuals who have broken the law and not necessarily to ensure people with mental illness receive appropriate care or that their mental illness is considered during sentencing. Various audience members brought up issues regarding how people with mental illness could be better dealt with in the courts, including Mental Health Courts. The judge emphasized that the courts are not suppose to “legislate” and that the best way to ensure progress is made in this regard is for community members to contact their elected officials. ❖

BE AN ADVOCATE FOR MENTAL HEALTH

1. County Board of Supervisors. In our last newsletter (Nov/Dec 2008), we suggested you attend these meetings and speak on matters of mental health when appropriate.

2. Mental Health Board (MHB). This advisory board is appointed by the County Supervisors, and meets once a month. Various MHB subcommittees meet on different days. Meetings are open to the public; NAMI members are encouraged to attend these meetings and get involved. If you wish to make a statement during the public comment portion of the agenda, fill out a speaker card and give to the Board Secretary before the meeting. Meetings are held:

on the third Monday of each month, 1:00 pm to 3:30 pm in the Training Room at

Ventura County Behavioral Health Department
1911 Williams Drive, Oxnard

Note that this month's meeting is changed to Tuesday
January 20th, 2009

3. Letter Writing. From time to time, we receive action alerts on items relating to mental health, at the State or Federal level. We ask for your support by writing to your legislators. We must act quickly when we receive these notices; NAMI Ventura County will send you an email message outlining the issue and what action is needed. Please make sure we have your email address on file.

4. Join NAMI. If you are not a member, help us make our voice heard to improve services to clients and families. ❖

by Baron L. Miller

In order to protect Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability benefits, it is important for those of us who supplement them to be familiar with the rules and to stay informed of changes. Following are the limitations on a recipient's resources and income in effect on January 1, 2009.

Resources

"Resources" is what the Social Security office calls assets owned by an SSI recipient, and in 2009 they continue to be limited to $2,000.00. The limitation applies only to assets in the recipient's name or to which a recipient is deemed to have unfettered access. Regardless of their worth, a recipient's home, household goods, personal effects, and a vehicle for transportation are not included in this limitation, nor are any assets owned by a special needs trust.

Income

Because SSI is based on financial need, money received by an SSI recipient can adversely affect both eligibility and the amount of benefits. A recipient may receive up to $20.00 each month from any source, and an additional $65.00 per month as wages, without an adverse effect. Once the limit is reached, ½ of the excess received each month will be deducted from the allowable SSI benefit for that month.

Significantly, there is no limitation at all on payments to providers of a recipient's living expenses if they are not deemed to be for food or shelter. Some of these things that can be paid for without limitation are clothing, telephone, household goods, computer, transportation, recreation, case management, helpers, companions, travel, medical and dental, most insurance, education, rehabilitation, and training.

The limitation rules do apply to payments for rent, mortgage, home insurance, real estate taxes, home utilities, and gift cards for food. However, unlike cash, payments for these things will not render a recipient ineligible for SSI; instead they will reduce monthly benefits by the actual amount of the payments, up to a maximum reduction of $245.00. Therefore, depending on a recipient's needs and another's ability to pay for them, it can be wise to pay a provider directly for shelter and/or food.

Cash received by an SSI recipient as reimbursement for expenses already paid for by the recipient will count as income in the month received (and will also count toward the $2,000.00 limitation). Receipt of food stamps will not affect benefits, nor will loans which the recipient is realistically expected to repay.

MediCal considerations

A recipient of SSI will continue to automatically qualify for MediCal. Due to the exorbitant cost of treating mental illness, MediCal is often crucial. Again, while cash payments made directly to a recipient might result in ineligibility, payments made to a provider of shelter or food would at most reduce monthly benefits by $245.00. If an SSI recipient's living expenses are going to be supplemented, this must be done in such a manner that it will not render the recipient ineligible for both SSI and MediCal.

Staying diligent

SSI rules do periodically change, and family members, friends, and trustees of special needs trusts should consult with the Social Security office or with an attorney familiar with the rules to determine what payments the current rules will allow, and what the potential loss to an SSI recipient could be.

Baron L. Miller is an attorney in private practice in San Francisco who specializes in estate planning for California families of the mentally ill. He is a long-time NAMLI family member, and an advocate for the rights and interests of families of the mentally ill. He does not charge for telephone consultations on the propriety of making payments for the benefit of an SSI recipient. He can be reached at 415 522-0500.❖

5/50 CHALLENGE:
DOING A LITTLE CAN BE BIG

by Kesa Ryono

(from the Ventura County Star, December 14, 2008)

You vote, you pay taxes and you are a stand-up person. These days, though, that might not be enough.

Across the nation, we are experiencing financial turmoil, massive layoffs and record foreclosures. When these conditions prevail, even the most self-reliant people find themselves needing more help from social services. This is happening at a time when our cash-strapped government is least able to help.

We must all step up to the plate. I challenge you to make a difference through what I call the 5/50 Challenge: volunteering five hours a month and donating $50 a year.

I am a volunteer, a community activist and a single, working mother of two daughters. Considering all that is on my plate, some say I lost my mind this year when I ran for a seat on the Port Hueneme City Council. I didn't win, but the 5/50 Challenge is the result of my campaign. As I met my fellow citizens and canvassed door to door through my city's neighborhoods, I tried to communicate that one person can make a difference.

In the 1990s, I became concerned about Halaco Engineering, a smelting plant adjacent to the park and beach where my girls played. I asked other moms if they noticed a metallic taste and a chemical odor. When I spoke to neighbors who did not live in Port Hueneme full time, and they told me that they had trouble breathing upon arrival to the area, I realized that something was very wrong.

Information, I knew, was a powerful tool in fighting what I saw as an injustice. So I created and distributed questionnaires asking moms and dads about the health effects the smelting plant had on their families. I contacted city and county officials about my concerns and organized others to do the same. I kept records of rain runoff and noxious fumes emitting from the Halaco property for a lawsuit filed by the Environmental Defense Center.

What was the result? After 35 years of never losing a case, Halaco's attorney and part-owner, Art Fine, lost big. In response to the lawsuit, Halaco filed for bankruptcy. In 2003, Halaco settled with the EDC, and by 2004, the company moved out of Ventura County. In 2007, the Environmental Protection Agency declared Halaco a Superfund site and started cleaning up the toxic mess.

Today, I am fortunate to work for a nonprofit organization I believe in: the Ventura County Civic Alliance. The alliance exists to promote a healthy and sustainable future for the Ventura County region. I grew up in Los Angeles and Orange counties and witnessed how a lack of coordinated planning yields a poorer quality of life. Our mission is to increase civic engagement by working in partnership with residents of Ventura County to identify and work toward a favorable future for all of us.

These days, we are all busy and worried. Anxiety makes the problems feel so big that we become paralyzed. I believe the only anecdote to anxiety is action — that one way to get rid of a big mess is one shovel full at a time.

Each of us can do a little more to meet the 5/50 Challenge. You can donate your monthly five hours by attending a city council meeting, giving blood (I think that this one should count for five), working on a Habitat for Humanity house, volunteering at your library or your Neighborhood Watch or writing a letter to the editor or your elected official.

You can give $50 by donating to a scholarship fund, becoming a member of an organization, shopping for local organic produce, or simply saving $50 a month — now there's a concept!

If you gave up just one hour of TV a week, would you notice? If you replaced four incandescent light bulbs with compact fluorescents, you would save $48 a year. That is almost all the savings of time and money you would need to meet the 5/50 Challenge.

According to the Rand Corp.'s 2007 count, Ventura County had 539,644 residents ages 15 to 64. Rounding that off to a half a million to make the math simpler, 5/50 translates to 2.5 million ours and $25 million for Ventura County.

Big problems need big solutions. If we all do a little, it could be big.

- Kesa Ryono of Port Hueneme is a friend of NAMI Ventura County. She is an associate with the Ventura County Civic Alliance, an initiative of the Ventura County Community Foundation, and serves on the Ventura County Fish and Game and Port Hueneme Parks and Recreation commissions.
